See You in Vegas for NAHMA's Summer Meeting

Alexandria, Va., June 17, 2015 — The National Affordable Housing Management Association (NAHMA)'s Public Policy Issues summer forum is only a week away and while online registration is closed, you can still register on-site. As you enjoy the sights and sounds of Las Vegas, stay connected with fellow attendees through Facebook, LinkedIn and Twitter with #nahma15.

The summer forum takes place Wednesday, June 24, at the Mandalay Bay Resort & Casino with evening activities at the Palms Casino Resort. The forum is held in conjunction with the National Apartment Association (NAA) annual Education Conference & Exposition, June 25-27. Registration for the NAHMA and NAA events is separate.

The NAHMA forum on June 24 features two policy sessions:

- David Smith, founder and chairman, Recap Real Estate Advisors, presents American Affordable Housing Today. Key issues addressed will include affordable housing and communities in America today; what makes successful communities; why public-private partnership is essential, and how can it be made to work; and what's next for property management.
- Janine Lind, NAHP-e, real estate executive management consultant, and Larry Curtis, president and managing partner of WinnDevelopment present Workforce Housing—National Issues and Initiatives, moderated by Mark Morgan, president, Interstate Realty Management.

Other forum highlights include the Vanguard Awards luncheon with keynote speaker David DeLong, an author and leading expert on solutions for closing the "skills gap" that threatens organizational performance, and committee meetings throughout the day. After which, the fun moves to the Palms for the NAHMA Educational Foundation Dinner and fundraising event followed by the NAHMA Party—both events require separate tickets.

Educational Foundation event tickets cost $175. For more information about tickets and sponsorship opportunities, contact Mark Livanec, event chair, 805-689-1558 or mark.livanec@GrowthML.com. Attendance for the NAHMA Party is free, but you must preregister by visiting <http://nahmaparty.com/>.

Besides Wednesday's forums, NAHMA will be presenting four sessions at the NAA conference, June 25-26: the Impact of Disparate Impact on Multifamily Affordable Housing, the Business Case for Retrofitting to Service Enrich Your Senior Housing, Unique Considerations for Marketing Affordable Housing, and Key Federal Legislative and Regulatory Issues Impacting Affordable Multifamily Housing. Descriptions and speakers for these sessions can be found on the preliminary NAHMA June 2015 agenda posted on the Meetings page at www.nahma.org.

Post your photos, useful tips from speakers and other experiences to social media and share them with NAHMA using #nahma15. The association's Facebook and LinkedIn pages can easily be found by searching NAHMA and use the handle @NAHMAtweet on Twitter. Let the association know what are the best parts of the forum, what isn't working so well, and don't forget to document all the fun. Posting is the quickest way to provide instant feedback.

After checking in at the NAHMA registration desk, look in your bag for information on designated times and locations where to meet fellow association members throughout the NAHMA and NAA events.
