Bid on Calendar Artwork at NAHMA's Fall Meeting

Alexandria, Va., Sept. 16, 2015 — Be one of the first to own an original Herman Ma. How about a one-of-a kind John Nichols? Those are just a couple of the artists whose work will be featured in the National Affordable Housing Management Association (NAHMA) Educational Foundation poster auction during the association's fall meeting in October. Besides the auction, the three-day event includes the keynote luncheon, educational panels, committee meetings and networking opportunities. Register before Sept. 25 and save $50.

The auction, which benefits the foundation's scholarship program, features artwork—created by children, seniors and adults with special needs living in affordable multifamily housing—that was chosen to appear in the 2016 NAHMA Drug-Free Kids calendar. This year's contest celebrated community spirit with its theme and subtheme, Our Hands Are United: Reach Out and Be a Good Neighbor.

The pieces that will be going to the highest bidder include all of the national winners of the annual poster and art contest, as well as the honorable mentions. In all, 22 works of art will be available at the auction.

The Regulatory Issues fall meeting, Oct. 25-27, takes place at the Fairmont Washington, D.C., Georgetown, 2401 M St. NW, Washington, DC 20037. The NAHMA room block single/double rate is $305. The discounted rooms are booked on a first-come, first-served basis and expire on or before Sept. 25 depending on availability. Reserve your room online today, <https://resweb.passkey.com/go/nahmafal2015>.

Event registration includes admission to the keynote luncheon, as well as the committee meetings and educational panels, which feature representatives from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, U.S. Department of Agricultural Rural Development, IRS and other industry experts. To see the full preliminary agenda, visit the Meetings page on the NAHMA website.
