The annual meeting features committee meetings and a number of educational panels specifically geared toward the affordable housing industry that are led by the people who are experts in their fields. Moreover, invited senior staff from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Department of Agriculture's Rural Development and other industry experts will talk about issues involving new regulations, REAC, maturing mortgages, LIHTCs, senior housing and more. Additionally, keynote speaker, former Congressman Martin Frost (D-TX), will address our current political climate, what to expect from Congress after the election and what it takes to achieve bipartisan cooperation.

Event registration includes admission to the keynote luncheon and all of the panels as well as the NAHMA Educational Foundation reception and poster auction on Monday, Oct. 24. The auction, which benefits the foundation's scholarship program, features the artwork that was chosen to appear in the 2017 NAHMA Drug-Free Kids calendar.
