The NAHMA fall meeting (#nahma17) focuses on the State of Affordable Housing in America and features a number of educational panels specifically geared toward the affordable housing industry that are led by the people who are experts in their fields. You do not want to miss your chance to hear from these policymakers, which include representatives from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Capitol Hill, Rural Development, public housing agencies and more.

Meeting registration includes admission to the Vanguard Awards luncheon, panel discussions and committee meetings.

This year, the annual poster auction, which consists of auctioning off the artwork created by children, seniors and residents with special needs that appears in the 2018 Drug-Free Kids calendar, will take place as part of the foundation's Inspiration Gala (#NAHMAEFInspireGala), Oct. 23, at the W Washington D.C. hotel. The proceeds of the auction benefit the foundation's scholarship program. It will still be the fun, energetic experience it always is, but it will require the purchase of a separate ticket.
