NAHMA Celebrates Its Many Volunteers

Alexandria, Va., April 21, 2025 — In honor of National Volunteers Week, the National Affordable Housing Management Association (NAHMA) is proud to recognize and celebrate the incredible contributions of our dedicated volunteers. Their unwavering commitment and tireless efforts have made a significant impact on the affordable housing industry and the lives of those we serve.

National Volunteers Week, observed from April 20-26, is a time to acknowledge the selfless individuals who generously donate their time and skills to support various causes. At NAHMA, our volunteers are the backbone of our organization, helping us achieve our mission and make a difference.

“Our volunteers are truly exceptional. Their passion and dedication inspire us every day. We are incredibly fortunate to have such a committed group of individuals who believe in our cause and work tirelessly to support it,” Kris Cook, NAHMA CEO, said.

NAHMA volunteers graciously donate their time serving on the association’s numerous committees, task forces and its Board of Directors. Additionally, members take time out of their busy schedules to advocate on behalf of matters important to the affordable housing industry through meetings with their congressional delegation and their key staff members when in Washington, D.C., during the annual NAHMA meetings or in their home districts; by participating in electronic campaigns whether by email or social media; or simply picking up the phone and calling their local legislative office. Moreover, NAHMA volunteers devote significant hours to supporting the NAHMA Educational Foundation, whether by serving on its Board of Directors, promoting the foundation’s national scholarship and Drug-Free Kids poster art programs, or organizing the annual fundraising gala.

NAHMA continues to be the leading voice in the affordable housing industry thanks to the tireless efforts of its volunteers.
